Why Crime Tends to Rise Over the Holidays

Contributing Factors for Retail Lot Crime

Increased Foot Traffic

More people mean more distractions, and less vigilance. Opportunistic criminals blend easily into a crowd.

Car Break-Ins

Thieves look for visible gifts or shopping bags left inside vehicles.

Reduced Visibility

Shorter days, weather conditions, and dimly lit areas create perfect conditions for theft.

Seasonal Closures

Empty retail or office car parks during the holiday season attract trespassers and vandals.

The holiday season brings a surge of activity, more vehicles, more shoppers, and unfortunately, more opportunities for crime. As retail parks, offices, and industrial estates experience heavier foot traffic and seasonal closures, parking lots become prime targets for theft and vandalism.

ALWAYS AWAKE. ALWAYS ON GUARD.

The Real-World Impact of Poor Holiday Security

The Cost of Inaction

Every holiday season, businesses across retail parks, shopping centres, and office complexes face thousands of dollars in losses due to vehicle thefts, vandalism, and break-ins. These incidents don't just affect property, they damage reputation, disrupt operations, and erode customer confidence.

Real-World Scenarios

Retail Center Theft

A shopping plaza in Dallas, TX, reported over $20,000 in stolen goods after multiple vehicle break-ins in unmonitored parking areas during December weekends last year.

Office Park Vandalism

An office park in Columbus, OH, left unattended over the Christmas break, suffered costly damage to lighting and perimeter fencing after overnight trespassing.

Shopper Safety Incident

In Phoenix, AZ, a shopper returning to their car after late-night holiday shopping was approached in a poorly lit section of a parking lot, prompting local businesses to review lighting.
